Jersey Fresh:

- Established in 1984, by the New Jersey Department of Agriculture, the Jersey Fresh logo was designed to inform consumers which fruits and vegetables were grown in the Garden State.
- What makes Jersey Fresh produce so special is the basic quality and freshness of the individual commodities. When a commodity is featured as Jersey Fresh, it is guaranteed to meet a certain quality standard for the size, shape and coloring of that commodity
- With food safety and quality uppermost in consumers' minds, the commodity inspection and grading service offered by the department is particularly important. Inspections and certifications at packing houses and processing facilities help guarantee that the products being shipped or processed meet all grade standards so that the commodities can be shipped domestically and internationally.
- The Jersey fresh website helps consumers view nearby places where Jersey fresh products and produce are being offered based on their location or where they can pick their own produce. It also offers a directory with a list of markets, farms, or businesses by county.
